MISSION OF JEE

The mission of the Journal of Ethics & Entrepreneurship (JEE) is to publish (double-blind, peer reviewed) interdisciplinary scholarly research (conceptual, theoretical, empirical) or teaching cases that connect entrepreneurship and ethics and appeal to both the academic and the practitioner.

FUNDING OF JEE

The Journal of Ethics & Entrepreneurship (JEE) is funded in its entirety by the John and Linda Godbold School of Business Endowment. This multi-million dollar endowment was created in 2008 at Gardner-Webb University to fund initiatives for education, culture, tradition, faith, scholarship and leadership. Among the projects created was a Center for Ethics and Entrepreneurship. And one of the projects of the Center was to publish a journal that contained scholarly articles about the connection between business ethics and entrepreneurship. Mr. Godbold, an astute and well-respected entrepreneur, had proven that it was possible to create enterprises that were both extremely profitable and uncompromisingly "ethical" at the same time.
